

Celebration of the Arts

June 1, 2017 • 6 to 9 p.m.

Henderson State University students take the stage to showcase their talents in art, theatre, dance, and music.

It is fitting that Henderson State was selected by Wildwood Park for the Arts for their inaugural college art in the park showcase. Performing and visual arts are compelling teachers of culture and history, bringing humanity together on a platform of mutual understanding. The arts are essential to the mission of Henderson State University – encouraging scholarly and creative activities in a caring, personal atmosphere that reflects the university's motto for over a century: "The School with a Heart."

Wildwood Park for the Arts is home to Little Rock's unique botanical gardens and Lucy Lockett Cabe Festival Theatre. Wildwood's vision is to provide opportunities for lifelong learning, engage the imagination and celebrate the human spirit through encounters with nature and a full spectrum of the cultural arts: visual, performing, literary, horticultural, culinary and more. Learn more about Wildwood at www.wildwoodpark.org.

The Celebration of the Arts will begin with an art show reception in the North and South Lobby. Guests can enjoy hors d'oeuvres and drinks while perusing the art gallery or venture outside for a walk in the Asian Woodland Garden. Following the reception, dance and drama will be in the spotlight on the Cabe Festival Theatre stage. Live music in the Pavilion will round out the night.

Open to the public at no charge, we expect this Celebration of the Arts to attract more than 400 guests from the Henderson State and greater Little Rock communities, including art patrons, alumni, and prospective students.

Today's fine art students will be tomorrow's global leaders in the arts and innovators who contribute to every profession. We invite you to invest in these future professional artists by sponsoring Henderson State University's Celebration of the Arts.
