

Constitution of Henderson State University

Faculty Senate

This Constitution is a revision of the original 1970 Henderson State College Faculty Senate Constitution, which was written by a Constitution Committee chaired by Dr. War E. Ankrum, accepted by the Faculty Senate with Dr. Hillquit Lynch as President, approved and adopted by the Faculty, and accepted by the Board of Trustees and the President of the then Henderson State College. This Constitution preserves the original purposes and maintains many of the provisions of the original Constitution. It incorporates the modifications adopted by the 1972-73 Faculty Senate with Mr. Louis Dawkins as President and approved by the Faculty. It also incorporates the amendment approved by the 1974-75 Faculty Senate with Dr. William Gentry as President and adopted by the Faculty.

The main new revisions are the changing of the term of office of the Faculty Senate members from one to two years (Articles V and VI) with one half of the members to be elected every year and the changing of the office of Vice President of the Faculty Senate to one of President-Elect of the Faculty Senate (Article VII). Other revisions include the making of the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate into a standing committee (Article VIII) and the distributing of agenda of Faculty Senate meetings to the Faculty and others prior to the meetings (Article XIII).

On December 10, 1975, the Faculty Senate voted without opposition to accept this Constitution and to submit it to the Faculty for a vote of approval (Article XV). This Constitution incorporates the amendment to Article VI which was approved by the 1986-87 Faculty Senate and the general faculty. The amendment eliminated the three at large representatives from the academic administrative offices. Also incorporated into this Constitution is an amendment to Article VI which was approved by the 1993-94 Faculty Senate and the general faculty. This amendment defines the college and school membership in terms of the five traditional areas (School of Business, School of Education, Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, and Science and Math).

The 1996-1997 Faculty Senate and general faculty of Henderson State University amended Articles II and VI in October of 1996. The amendment redefined faculty as those who hold academic rank, and changed the composition of the Faculty Senate to that of representation by departments and by rank, rather than by the traditional areas. Articles IV, V, VI, and IX were also amended at that time in order to change the Senate year to begin in January instead of April. The final amendment of that year was to Article XIV, which provided a way for the Procedures Committee to petition the Faculty Senate to amend its Constitution.

The 1999 Faculty Senate and general faculty of Henderson State University amended Article V to allow departmental representatives to succeed themselves, Article VI to take out mention of a specific number of departments, clarify the process for electing departmental representatives and alternates and allow alternates to attend meetings with full voting privileges in the absence of a senator, and Article XII to clarify replacement of senators who leave in mid-term.

The 2000 Faculty Senate and general faculty of Henderson State University amended Article V to allow at-large members whose terms are ending to be elected as departmental senators, Article V to clarify ends of terms of senators, Article V to eliminate a specific number of departments, Article VI to eliminate separate mention (apart from section 2) of student membership, Article XII to clarify membership protection for staff and student members, Article VI to remove reference to a non-existent paragraph, Article XII to be consistent with the January to December senate year, and Article VI to make clear that some members may be returned to the senate upon the expiration of their terms.

The 2007 Faculty Senate and general Faculty of Henderson State University amended the Constitution of the Faculty Senate to change the duties of the Faculty Senate Secretary, to add current standing committees to the Senate Constitution, to add the Senate President's Meeting with the Vice President of Academic Affairs, to change selection of alternatives from departmental elections when a vacancy occurs and to change the officers of the faculty senate.

The 2013 Faculty Senate and general Faculty of Henderson State University amended Article VI Paragraph 1 of the Constitution of the Faculty Senate to clarify that faculty holding rank below Instructor are not eligible to serve on Faculty Senate.

The 2014 Faculty Senate and general Faculty of the Henderson State University approved amendments to Article VI Section 4 to ensure representation from the School of Business, Article VII Section 3 to make the Webmaster the chair of the Procedures Committee, and Article VIII Section 2 to clarify the membership of the Executive Committee.

Membership in the Faculty Senate shall be the common denominator of one and all of its members. Whenever a person is elected to the Faculty Senate, he shall agree upon his acceptance of this opportunity, to refrain from using status, rank, position, salary, tenure, or other differentiating factors which may suggest undue advantage; and he agrees to extend this immunity to all other members; and he is to conduct business of the Senate without apprehension whenever he supports a separate or antagonistic position or introduces or supports an unpopular cause.

Article IV. Official Year of the Faculty Senate

The official year of the Faculty Senate shall commence with the regularly scheduled January meeting of the Faculty Senate, and it shall be concluded with the call to order of the regularly scheduled January meeting of the following year.

Article V. Term of Office of Members and Officers of the Faculty Senate

1. Members of the Faculty Senate who are elected shall serve for two official years. One half of the members shall be elected each year.
2. Officers of the Faculty Senate who are elected therein shall serve in their respective capacities for one official year and shall not succeed themselves in their particular office.
3. An elected member to the Faculty Senate shall have served his two official years upon the call to order of the regularly scheduled January meeting following his or her second official year.
4. Members who have served for two official years are not eligible for the at-large elections until one year has passed. Elected members from the academic departments and library may succeed themselves as departmental representatives. At-large members whose terms are ending may be elected as departmental senators.

Article VI. Membership

1. Eligibility of membership in the Faculty Senate is extended to every member of the faculty and the student body (Article II, Purposes of the Faculty Senate, paragraphs 1, 2, and 6) and with the exception of elected faculty members who are concluding one full term of two official years (except as provided for in Article V paragraph 4), faculty who hold a rank below instructor, and faculty who hold an administrative position above departmental chair. The Faculty Senate shall be the sole judge of interpreting the criteria of membership and eligibility of any given individual as set forth in the Constitution of the Faculty Senate. The Faculty Senate shall interpret faculty to mean those who hold academic rank. Special cases shall be reviewed by the Procedures Committee.

2. The Faculty Senate shall include one representative of the Student Government Association and one representative of the Staff Senate, each serving as a non-voting member.

3. Decisions and elections shall be vested in the members of the Faculty Senate.

4. The Faculty Senate shall consist of: one member from each academic department, one from Aviation, one from the rest of the School of Business, one from the library, and eight members who will be elected at-large with equal representation according to the ranks of professor, associate professor, assistant professor, and instructor. One half of the departmental representatives and one of the at-large members from each of the ranks shall be elected anew each year.

5. The Procedures Committee of the Faculty Senate shall conduct the election of one eligible representative and an alternate from each of the departments whose representative is leaving office that year, whenever they wish, provided that the results be recorded not later than the first day of November.

6. The Procedures Committee of the Faculty Senate shall devise and distribute the annual ballot to members of the faculty according to ranks held as of November, with memoranda concerning eligibility and with instructions to vote for the appropriate number of representatives in each category. The Procedures Committee shall collect ballots and tabulate results. The chair of the Procedures Committee shall ascertain the names of the appropriate number of individuals in each category who have received the highest number of votes and shall announce the names accordingly. This shall include an alternate for each elected position. The chair of the procedures Committee will also forward results with the tabulations to the Secretary of the Faculty Senate who will maintain the records.

10. The Role of Alternates. If a senator is unable to attend a senate meeting, his or her alternate may attend the meeting with full voting rights. The alternate does not take on any committee rights or responsibilities except as defined below.

If a senator is going to be unable to perform his or her duties for a prolonged period of time, the senator should notify his or her alternate and the faculty senate president as soon as is possible. In such a situation, the senator's alternate temporarily becomes a senator and takes on all rights and responsibilities of the senator, including committee memberships, with the exception of any elective or appointed office of the senate or serving as chair (or chair-elect) of a subcommittee of the senate. The Faculty Senate Procedures Committee will consult ballots to determine a new alternate, who will serve only until the senator resumes his or her duties. At the point when the senator resumes his or her duties, the alternate resumes his or her original role as alternate.
